

DOCUFY TopicPilot – Think future, publish mobile

Your challenge

Enterprise mobility is a strategic topic in your company? Do you want to make diverse information and complex documents available on the go and always keep them up to date? Everyone should be able to find the needed information quickly and have access to it at any time?

Our solution

DOCUFY TopicPilot is the search engine for information, content and know-how for future-oriented companies. Content of all kinds can be found and used device-specifically by manufacturers and their customers at any time and any location. DOCUFY TopicPilot consists of a server software, a web application and native apps (iOS and Android) which display context and role-specific information on mobile devices and on the internet. The right information at the right time in the right place.

Your advantages:

- > Immediately usable: Directly publish existing databases
- > Cost saving: Quick and unerring access to information saves time
- > Secure: Extensive user and rights management allows selective determination of authorised users who have data access
- > Highly efficient: A full text search independent of the file format
- > Clever: A clever facet search secures the direct access to relevant information
- > Sustainable: An efficient mobile publication platform that equips companies for future demands on digitisation and Industry 4.0

Fit for the future

Individualised documentation - as it will be required by the industry of the future - cannot be managed without the change to a topic-based documentation process. Today, DOCUFY TopicPilot already offers all needed functions for the challenges of tomorrow.
